PROJECT BACKGROUND AND GOALS

It is estimated that globally, that one in four people will experience a mental health problem during their lifetime. Untreated mental health problems do not only affect individuals and their ability to function, earn an income and raise children, but affect whole families and communities. Mental health is part the overall health care system reform in Ukraine and plans to improve mental health care include the integration of mental health care in primary health care, which would make such care more accessible. International Medical Corps is planning to carry out a mental health needs assessment in three pilot oblasts (L’viv, Poltava, and Zaporizhzhia), with the goal of generating policy and operational guidance to strengthen integration of mental health into primary health care and community based service platforms. The assessment will focus on the most common mental disorders (anxiety, depression, distress and alcohol abuse) and includes the following:

- A desk top review of on Ukraine national policies and plans, journal publications, assessments and reports on mental health
- A mapping of available mental health services and capacities including health facilities and community mental health service platforms
- An assessment of community demand for services, help seeking, coping and barriers to mental health care in target oblasts, utilizing community discussions and key informant interviews
- Engagement of various key stakeholders at the national and regional levels as well as global level experts from WHO and the World Bank to discuss needs, opportunities and recommendations
- Dissemination of a comprehensive assessment report outlining key policy recommendations for strengthening and expanding community based mental health care in Ukraine, to be completed in August 2017.
